

27th November 1919.

Dear Mr. Long,

Enclosed I return the copy of your article on my investigations with one or two trifling verbal alterations. As it stands, it will do quite excellently. Though personally I feel some reluctance in publicly announcing results which are still sub judice, especially as they are of a revolutionary character, a kind of astronomical Bolshevism trying to upset the accepted order of things, I take comfort in Dr. Johnson's view that every man has the right of his opinion, but also every other man the right to knock him down for holding it.

With kindest regards,

Yours sincerely,
