

Submitting material to MNASSA

MNASSA is the official journal of the ASSA and is listed with SABINET and can be found on the Harvard and NASA ADS Abstract services, which means that MNASSA is internationally recognized.

Authors may add their MNASSA article as a publication on their CV and can be cited and referenced in other publications. This implies that ASSA is seen, both Nationally and Internationally, to be actively involved in, and contributing to, the knowledge base of Astronomy.

As MNASSA editor, I am happy to look at any article an ASSA member wishes to publish on work that s/he has done, events they have been involved like:

- Star Parties,
- Dark Sky camps,
- Variable Star observations,
- Spectroscopy,
- telescope making,
- technical aspects of astrophotography,
- Outreach activities and,
- Related material

These submissions need not lengthy and complex articles, they can also be reports on various activities that an individual, group or Centre has done with an image or two. MNASSA focuses on work done in SA, to show that the ASSA is an active body of non-professional astronomers to complement the work of the professional astronomers in SA; at the SAAO and SAAO.

So, before sending your report/article to a newsletter, send it to MNASSA, and then if published it will provide a permanent record of the activity that can be used and referenced in other publications, even newsletters.

I look forward to receiving material from ASSA Centre Members, ASSA Country Members, Section Directors; as a MSWord file in the third person, with images. Please send them to me at particles@mweb.co.za
